

Scenario: You are a single individual who has been alone for a few years now. You are searching for someone with a lot in common, as you feel you have never met someone like yourself.

Fixes:

- The match percentage idea was good in theory, but adds clutter to the screen and is unnecessary overall
- The “MEH” feature is redundant, users can just press next if they do not want to meet someone they had a lot in common with

Keeps

- The log in screen is simple and easy to use, no complaints
- Having a picture of the match being the focal point of the screen is a solid feature